Commissioners from a wide range of sectors, expertise and backgrounds are contributing their guidance, intellectual input and ideas to a joint The Lancet and Financial Times Commission report on Governing health futures 2030: Growing up in a digital world. This report will be published in The Lancet in 2021 and explore the convergence of digital health, artificial intelligence (AI), and other emerging technologies with universal health coverage (UHC) to support the attainment of the third Sustainable Development Goal (SDG).

It pays a particular focus to children and young people and what growing up in a digital world means to their health and well-being. The Commission is collaborating with partners to support inclusive dialogues with the private sector, youth organisations, and other key stakeholders
